

TASH TAYLOR, Chief Executive Officer

Tash is a service-oriented leader with 25 years of management experience, including executive leadership with Edmonton Public Schools, NorQuest College, ASBA, and the Association of Alberta Public Housing Agencies. Her early career included business planning and reporting manager with the Government of Alberta, executive director with the Lakeland Aboriginal Employment Services Association, and community affairs manager with Imperial Oil Resources – Cold Lake.

As a management consultant and certified executive coach, she works with teams across the globe. She specializes in governance, leadership performance, strategy, executive human resources, and stakeholder engagement. She has worked with numerous school divisions and the Government of Alberta, and brings a deep appreciation and understanding of the importance of school business officials.

She is a faculty member and course developer with the Governance Professionals of Canada, where she instructs organizational professionals across the country on best practices in governance.

Tash has served on local, provincial, and national Boards of Directors, including the ATA Teacher Service Quality Board. She is bilingual in English and French, and is motivated by helping others succeed and turning ideas into results.
